

What Do CAPTAIN AMERICA and ORTHODONTICS

Have In Common?

ANSWER: Dr. Chamberlain and his friendly staff! It is an unlikely duo, but on May 7th, Chamberlain Orthodontics hosted a morning at the movies for all of their patients, families, and friends to enjoy the movie block buster Captain America: Civil War over opening weekend. This Orthodontic practice has been serving Chandler residents since 2002, with two locations and many impressive awards to boast of, such as the Best of Phoenix Orthodontics and 2016 People's choice award.

Rarely packed on a Saturday morning, the Harkins Theatres Chandler Fashion contained over six hundred excited moviegoers! The Chamberlain staff greeted the guests with popcorn passes and wrangled them into serpentine lines for the two theatres that they had booked for the event. Lo and behold, Iron Man and Captain America popped in for the event too!

Movie, fun, and excitement aside, Dr. Chamberlain and his staff strongly believe in giving back to the community. Ruchi Kalra, Marketing Director of Chamberlain Orthodontics, is active in not only promoting the office's customer-centric service, but she spearheads creative ways for the office and patrons to promote goodwill locally. The staff hosted a booth for patients to give back in two ways: donating school supplies, dental care items, socks, and underwear for Fans Across America Charitable Foundation and/or donating gently used books for ICAN through Help Humanity Today. Fans Across America is a non-profit organization that provides basic living essentials for victims of domestic violence, homeless students, and families in transition. Another non-profit, ICAN is centered on empowering youth through free afterschool programs. In the spirit of giving, Chamberlain added another layer of excitement by raffling prizes to those who donated. Prizes included Kindles, gift cards, and Chamberlain goodies.

Not only does Chamberlain raise donations for various organizations, but they also leap directly into action. The office hosts essay contests for several Chandler high school students in need; wherein lucky recipients receive free orthodontic treatment. This year, Dr. Chamberlain could not decide between several well-written essays from Chandler High School, so he awarded braces to two students. Soon to be announced will be the winners of the ICAN essay contest. Moreover, in the last year the office has awarded free braces at Hamilton High School and the Boys & Girls Club of the East Valley. In the upcoming months they are planning an essay contest at the 100 Club which provides immediate assistance to the families of fallen or injured public safety officers and firefighters.

The impetus behind the philanthropic actions can be captured by Dr. Chamberlain's remark, "Nothing is more satisfying than just giving to someone. I have always loved the truth of this statement. It seems in my life, whenever I have had the opportunity to give to someone, I have received much more in return. This is an easy and convenient way to share some of the abundance with which we have been blessed."

Needless to say, Dr. Chamberlain cannot run through walls, fly high over buildings or control objects like the heroes of Civil War, but he and his staff are working hard to bring a different kind of heroism to Chandler.
